How To Be a Smart Shopper in the Dental Products Aisle

Join us for a complimentary “lunch and learn” session!

WHEN:
Thursday, June 14, 2018
12:00 noon

WHERE:
NYU College of Dentistry
345 E. 24th Street (corner of First Ave.), room 401
New York, NY 10010

With so many dental products on the market reflecting the improvements in oral health care, how do you know which products are the right ones for you?

New York University’s College of Dentistry welcomes you to join us as we discuss, demonstrate, and educate older New Yorkers on dental products that may be recommended for maintaining good oral health.

Among the topics we’ll be discussing:
- What kind of toothbrush should I use?
- How do I clean my dentures?
- What kind of toothpaste should I use?
- What kind of floss should I use?
- Should I use a fluoride rinse?
- How do I clean my crown and bridges?
- What kind of mouthwash should I use?
- What kind of denture adhesive should I use?
- What is a mouth lubricant?
- What is an oral irrigation device?
- Are toothpicks helpful or harmful?
- Alternatives to sugar: snacking for good oral health!

Lunch will be provided for those who register in advance.
